

JOURNAL OF OPEN HARDWARE

The international peer-reviewed Journal of Open Hardware publishes papers and reviews on technical, legal, economic, and sociocultural aspects of open hardware design, fabrication, and distribution.

OH is organized around the same principles guiding Free and Open Source development and Open Access publishing. We prioritize the exchange of knowledge by creating the conditions for the study, modification, redistribution and use of hardware designs for any purpose. To foster our mission, we ensure our publications include Open research data, Free and Open Source software, and fully documented hardware which are accessible, searchable, interoperable, and reusable.

Why publishing in the JOH?

- full gold access journal
- world leading experts in open source hardware
- rapid and professional review process
- peer-review of standalone documentation
- ethical publishing policy

Accepting submissions now:
<http://journalofopenhardware.org>

